

..... has qualified as a NY state semi-finalist in the 2008 National Geographic Bee to be held in Albany on April 4, 2008.

Pictured left to right:

Mrs. Napolitano, classroom teacher, Joey Schneider, Ms. Moore, classroom teacher.

Cornwell Avenue School in West Hempstead is proud to announce that Joseph Schneider, a fourth grader has qualified as a NY state semi-finalist in the 2008 National Geographic Bee to be held in Albany on April 4, 2008. The National Geographic Bee is held annually and is open to students in grades 4-8.

Joey competed in the building level competition which was the first round and earned the title of School Champion. This qualified Joey to proceed to next level which consisted of a 72 question multiple choice test. The top 100 scorers from across NY State were then selected to participate in the state finals.

Joey will be competing with other school champions from various schools across NY State for the chance to become the NY State champion. The winner in this category would then proceed to the next level of competition on the national level.

We are all very proud of Joey and congratulate him on this achievement.

